Happy October to all! For those in the Northern climate it is time to enjoy the crisp air and to put away the mowing equipment and enjoy the all too brief period before bringing out the snow removal stuff.

Going to keep this short and centered around only a few items. First we still need help filling out our Committees. Of prime importance is the need for a Chair of the Health Committee. Please, all of you with an organizational aptitude and the desire to help our breed, give it serious thought. This is an area where you can make a difference! If you have questions on what it entails, contact Stacey Laforge. Also there are still openings for TTCA Historian and TTCA Legislative Liaison and Awards Chair. For the Historian position contact Stacey with your questions and for the Legislative Liaison, contact me.

The Tibetan Terrier Health and Welfare Foundation will soon be having their annual fund drive. Their request will soon find its way to your mailbox. Please consider giving. It is through your donations that you touch the lives of current and future Tibetan Terriers.
President’s Message con’t

Finally, a huge thank you to both Caryl Crouse as Chair of the Nominating Committee and to her Committee for their work in arriving at a slate for all to consider for the upcoming year. You can find this slate in this Newsletter.

Delegates Report
Stacey LaForge

The Delegates Meetings were held in Newark, NJ on September 11-12, 2015. The vote on the proposed amendment allowing for the awarding of Certificate of Merit point in the regular puppy classes was referred back to the Board for further consideration.

There was an interesting presentation on FSS (Foundation Stock Service), a program for rare purebred breeds. FSS is a step on the way to full AKC breed recognition. FSS breeds can compete in companion and applicable performance events. For more information on the program: http://www.akc.org/dog-breeds/foundation-stock-service/

It was reported that over a million dollars have been raised for the AKC Reunite Pet Disaster Relief Trailer Project and over 30 trailers delivered and close to 30 more in the works. The Natrona County, WY trailer that we helped sponsor was recently on display at a “Bark in the Park” event in Casper WY. Some of the deployed trailers have already been used in emergencies; recently, the Sacramento Pet Disaster Relief trailer was sent to Amador County to assist with evacuees from fires.

There was a lot of discussion about the Bred with HEART program at the Parent Club Committee Meeting. The program puts an emphasis on education, parent club health requirements, care/conditions and inspections. This is a separate program from the Breeder of Merit program, and geared towards a wider scope of breeders than that program (although they aren't mutually exclusive.) Some interesting statistics: In 2014 around 250,000 litters were registered. 18% came from Breeders of Merit, or those eligible for the program. 13% came from commercial breeders (USDA or those having more than 7 litters per year who were not Breeders of Merit.) 69% came from other/casual breeders.

Of particular importance to the Tibetan breed clubs, a Parent Club Committee member read the Board policy on breed historical references. Basically, the AKC has reiterated its position that it will make not changes to breed historical references unless there is a formal request made by a Parent Club.

At the December’s meeting in Florida, we will be voting on a number of topics including:
A proposed amendment which will eliminate term limits for Board member
A proposed amendments which would allow clubs to utilize electronic documents for premium lists, judging programs and catalogs
A proposed amendment which would recognize multiple levels of Grand Champion titles.

AKC Companion Events

To All AKC Delegates:

The following regulations will be modified to reflect this change:

Regulations for Agility Trials

Danser Swilla Corey, "Cori" earned his MACH 5 in Cheswick on July 19, 2015. He is such an awesome boy & has done more than I can ever have asked for.

Owned & Loved by Mary Frances Martin

Danser Swilla Corey, "Cori" earned his TQX at the Tamarack Lake agility trial in Erie on 7/24/2015. My thanks to Diana & Jim Serlo for such special little dogs.
On Sat. Oct 3rd Zoe and I went to a Barn Hunt in Menasha, Wisconsin. Zoe needed one more Qualifying score for her Rat Senior title. In the Senior class a dog has to find 4 rats that are in tubes that are well hidden in between bails of straw along with an empty tube and 3 others that have some used litter. The dog has 3 1/2 minutes to find the rats and also go through a tunnel and do a climb. Out of all the dogs in the Senior class Zoe found the rats in 2.07 minutes and was the fastest dog in the entire class. She won First place in her height division and also the High in Class ribbon. She is the First Tibetan Terrier with a Senior title.

We were also entered on Sunday so I moved her up to the Master class. In this class the Judge has a choice of hiding any where from 1 to 5 rats along with litter tubes and empty tubes. The dog has to search for rats and when we think we found all that the judge hides and also do the tunnel and climb we have to call clear and the judge either says “sorry” or “Congratulations”. This search has to be done under 4 1/2 minutes. Well Zoe was still on top of her game because she found all 4 rats again and did her tunnel and climb in 3.13 minutes which also got her a 4th place out of 9 qualifiers. We need a total of 5 Qualifying scores for the Master title. I have loved and played with this amazing dog for a long time. Zoe will be 13 on the 29th of October.

Nose Work

Canine scent work became an official dog sport in January, 2009, when the National Association of Canine Scent Work, the founding organization for nose work, held its first trial. Nose work is an activity that every dog can participate and have fun in. Age and breed have no real bearing on the dog’s ability to participate in this activity.

Using much of the same methodology used to train professional scent detection dogs, the dogs begin with simple searches in cardboard boxes and then gradually progress to searching many different places and objects. Since dogs must search alone with no distractions, classes are small. Using the dog’s natural instincts to hunt coupled with a good nose, dogs usually relish the search. This search gives the dog a sense of accomplishment when he finds the hide. The dog’s whole demeanor changes when he begins the search. His body language shows that he is now a confident professional in searching. Dogs often improve their focus, gain confidence, and become closer to their handlers. On the other hand, handlers must quietly support their dogs and learn to trust their dogs.

Since that first trial in 2009, there have been over 135 trials in different parts of the US, making it a popular and growing dog sport. Trials don’t need large fenced areas or lots of specialized equipment, making it an easy sport to set up and tear down. Also scents can be hidden anywhere either inside or outside. Hiding items in water gives dogs a good challenge, as does hides in cars.

Canine scent work is the perfect challenge for all dogs, no matter the size or breed. Everyone has a good time searching.
Morris and Essex Show—Elegance and Glamor

Somerset, New Jersey, October 1, Sandy White

This unique event — held only every five years, first held in 1937 and revived from dormancy in 2000 — was initially sponsored by one of America’s richest women and great dog lover Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge, who began hosting an annual outdoor show on her vast property in Madison, New Jersey in 1927. By 1939, the entry was nearly 4500 dogs — making it one of the largest shows ever held in the U.S.

This year there were 4152 dogs entered with a total entry of 4666 in 195 different breeds or varieties, and 29 rings.

Elegance was added to the show by the many exhibitors who wore vintage outfits and hats. The creativity in the hats alone made the show worth attending.

The venue was marked by elaborate flower displays and the absence of noise from fans, blow dryers and other equipment, due to special underground equipment designed to eliminate noise. Volunteers from M&E shuttled exhibitors and spectators around in golf carts, making it easy to see all the rings.

At precisely noon, all judging stopped, and exhibitors were presented with a delicious and beautifully designed “box lunch” included as part of the entry fee.

For the second time in its history, the Show featured an Art Show juried by William Secord of the William Secord Gallery in New York City and author of “A Breed Apart”, The Art Collection of the AKC.

Veterinary health insurance has been around for a good long time, but only recently has it been gaining in popularity. Growth within the industry was initially stymied by inadequate, “slow-pay” and “no-pay” reimbursement policies. Pet health insurance companies have come a long way, and are now attracting the attention of more and more pet lovers, particularly those who want to take advantage of high-end diagnostic and therapeutic options that might otherwise be unaffordable.

Perhaps you’ve thought about pet insurance, but haven’t committed one way or another because the policies are confusing, or you truly don’t know whether or not purchasing insurance makes good financial sense. Know that you are not alone in your uncertainty. To help with your understanding, I encourage you to read, “The Changing Landscape of Pet Health Insurance.”

Is pet insurance right for you?

Deciding whether or not to purchase a medical insurance policy for your pet requires serious consideration. And, if you decide to go ahead, figuring out which insurance company is the best fit can be daunting. Although it is considered to be far less necessary than human medical insurance, should your pet develop a chronic disease or suffer some sort of catastrophe, such as being hit by a car, pet insurance might be your best, if not your only way of financing his or her care.

Without question, quality veterinary care is expensive, and as the cost of living continues to increase, so too will the cost of doing business with your veterinarian.

When making your decision about pet health insurance, I encourage you to consider your answers to the following three questions:

What are your current financial resources?

If your pet suffered a serious accident or sudden significant illness, would you be able to finance his or her recovery? Think about the types of procedures and associated expenses you might encounter: surgery, ultrasound examination, hospitalization with or without intensive care, consultation with specialists, rehabilitation therapy; and the list goes on. Could you absorb such costs should the need arise tomorrow? How do these numbers compare to the amount needed to purchase a year’s worth of medical insurance for your dog or cat?

Your six-month-old Golden Retriever may be the picture of health now, but how about several years down the road when he becomes a “golden oldie”? Purchasing and maintaining pet insurance when your dog is young may make good sense. This way, you can rest assured there will be no exclusions for pre-existing conditions, and you may have the option of locking in a lower premium rate.

Are you inclined to take the “do everything possible approach” when it comes to taking care of your pet?

The price tag for aggressive veterinary care is considerably higher than for more conservative approaches. Currently the price tag for surgical repair of a torn cruciate ligament (a common knee injury in larger dog breeds) runs between $2,000 and $4,000, depending on the type of surgery performed. The average fee for an MRI scan, including general anesthesia, is $2,000 to $3,000. Treatment of diabetes can cost several thousand dollars over an animal’s lifetime. If you are inclined to take the “do everything possible approach,” a pet health insurance policy is likely to be a wise investment.

What best suits your peace of mind?

Will you sleep better at night knowing that, no matter what happens, insurance will allow you to pay for excellent, top notch care for your pet? Or, will you lie awake fearing that you are throwing money away on yet one more insurance policy that may never be needed?

I hope this information has helped you determine whether or not purchasing a pet health insurance policy makes sense for you and your pets. To learn more about this topic and figure out which insurance provider is the best fit, I encourage you to visit the North American Pet Health Insurance Association and Pet Insurance Review.

Do you have a health insurance policy for your pet? If so, how did you choose which provider to use?

If you would like to respond publicly, please visit: http://www.speakingforspot.com/blog/?p=4933.

Best wishes to you and your four-legged family members for abundant good health,

Thank You

Donna Ogden thank you for the wonderful pictures of your pups having fun in the fall leaves.

Jill Hardy your little Jets fan is great. Hope his team won this weekend.

Your photos help bring the newsletter alive and show our pups having great fun just being dogs. I can not thank you enough.

They motivate us to play, be affectionate, seek adventure and be loyal.
